TAFT & SHERMAN ARE ELECTED

Republicans Carry New York, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Kansas.

New York, Nov. 4.—The next president of the United States will be William Howard Taft, Republican, of Ohio. The next vice president will be James Schoolcraft Sherman, Republican, of New York.

This is the verdict returned by the majority of the 15,000,000 voters of the United States. The Republican candidate has repeated Mr. Roosevelt's feat of carrying every northern state, giving him a clear majority in the electoral college of 121 over William Jennings Bryan, the Democratic candidate. Mr. Taft will receive 302 electoral votes to Mr. Bryan's 181. The latter has carried West Virginia, which went to Mr. Roosevelt four years ago. Maryland gave 8000 plurality for Mr. Taft. Oklahoma, the state created since the last presidential election, has enrolled itself, as was expected, in the Democratic column.

Nebraska has gone Democratic by a plurality of 10,000 for Mr. Bryan and a plurality of about the same figure for Shallenberger, Democrat, for governor.

Results In the East.

Pennsylvania has gone Republican by 300,000 majority and New Jersey by 15,000, the figures in 1904 being 508,-519 and 80,593 respectively. Connecticut is Republican save in a few cities and towns, but Congressman George L. Lilley, the Republican candidate for governor, ran behind Mr. Taft. His majority is 15,000, whereas the Republican presidential candidate has carried the state by 30,000. This is below Mr. Roosevelt's figure in 1904.

Judge Taft may have a majority in the city of New York, the first time the big city has given its vote to a Republican presidential candidate. Mr. Taft probably will receive a greater plurality in New York state than President Roosevelt did four years ago. He has exceeded Mr. Roosevelt's plurality in New Jersey and had a surprisingly big vote in Massachusetts.

Governor Charles E. Hughes has been re-elected in New York state by about 54,000 plurality.

The lower house of the Sixty-first congress will be Republican by the usual majority. The senate will remain Republican. Speaker Cannon has won his fight for re-election by his usual majority.

Most of the great cities of the country have gone Republican, with the exception of New York and Chicago. In each of these cases, however, the rural Republican majority has been sufficiently large to offset the Democratic urban vote. St. Louis has gone Republican, while the rest of Missouri is heavily Democratic.

Central States For Taft.

Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, the great central states, with an aggregate of sixty-five electoral votes, have gone Republican despite the fight made to bring them into the Democratic column. The success of Mr. Taft in these states, considered vitally necessary to his election, has carried with it the success of the Republican state tickets, except in Ohio, where Judson Harmon, Democrat, is elected governor by 10,000.

Republican hopes of carrying Kentucky proved vain in spite of the victory of Willson, Republican, in the gubernatorial contest last year. The greater part of the state's congressional delegation will be Democrats.

The Pacific coast states, California, Washington and Oregon, have given their votes to the Republican candidate, but Nevada, which voted against Parker in 1904, gave its votes this year to Bryan. Montana, the Dakotas and Minnesota are again Republican, but Governor Johnson's personal popularity has sufficed to seat him again in the gubernatorial chair of the North Star state. Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa and in fact the entire west and northwest are Republican, but, as noted above, by lowered majorities.

The South Still Solid.

The "solid south" is still solidly Democratic, Mr. Bryan polling the usual large majorities. Only in Maryland has the Republican party made serious inroads on the Democratic vote, and may have carried the state. Delaware, about which some doubt was expressed, has gone Republican. The New England states have gone for Taft and have elected Republican governors, but the vote in Rhode Island, where the Democrats made a strong fight, is very close. In Massachusetts the Independence party candidate for governor made a good showing, though running far behind the vote of Thomas L. Hisgen last year.

New York city has been carried by Taft by about 10,000, but Chanler, the Democratic candidate for governor, received a majority of 70,000. The figures for the entire state are as follows: Taft, 830,000; Bryan, 630,000; Hughes, 815,250; Chanler, 715,350.

CONNECTICUT FOR TAFT

Swept the State As Completely As Four Years Ago.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 4.—The Republicans swept the state of Connecticut in Tuesday's election fully as completely, perhaps a little more so, as four yeors ago, Taft carrying the state by more than 30,000 plurality, and Congressman George L. Lilley, the Republican candidate for governor, going to office by about 15,000 plurality over Judge A. Heaton Robertson, his opponent. All the five congressmen are Republicans by pluralities equal to those of two years ago. The entire Republican state ticket is elected, as usual, while the general assembly is more strongly Republican than for a good many years. The confidence of the Democrats was entirely misplaced, for their vote in all directions showed a falling off as compared with two and four years ago.

BRYAN CARRIES HOME STATE

Democrats Win In Nebraska By 10,000 Majority.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 4—Nebraska has gone Democratic by a plurality of 10,000 for Bryan and a plurality scarcely less for Shallenberger, Democrat, for governor. The result was a surprise and a disappointment to Republican managements, who, while admitting the state was doubtful on the national ticket, confidently expected their state ticket to be elected. The tremendous gain for Bryan in the city of Lincoln was the wonder of the election. Not only did Mr. Bryan reverse a Republican plurality of 1600 in his home city, but he carried it by a plurality of something in excess of 600.

While returns are incomplete on congressmen, indications are for the election of Pollard (Rep.) in the First district and Hinshaw (Rep.) in the Fourth. Hitchcock (Dem.) wins in the Second, and the Third, Fifth and the Sixth are in doubt.

Bryan Silent On Election.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 4.—"I do not desire to discuss the result of the election at the present time," said Mr. Bryan after the returns were received here. "At a later date I shall probably have something to say, but now I must beg to be excused." The Democratic candidate's own city gave Mr. Taft a majority. The result in Nebraska was a great disappointment to Mr. Bryan.

Kansas Still Republican.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 4. — Kansas is again in the Republican column this year. Mr. Taft's majority in the state is 40,000, 86,093 less than Mr. Roosevelt's majority in 1904. Walter R. Stubbs, Republican, has been elected governor.

Taft Wins In South Dakota.

Pierre, S. D., Nov. 4.—This state has been carried by Taft by a plurality estimated at 30,000. In 1904 Mr. Roosevelt received a plurality of 50,114. Robert S. Vessey, Republican candidate for governor, has been elected.

Wyoming Republican.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 4. — This state's three electoral votes will be cast for William H. Taft, but his popular majority is considerably below that of Mr. Roosevelt.

Kentucky.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 4.—Kentucky has gone Democratic by a vote of 230,000 in a total vote of 430,000. The Republicans have lost two of their congressmen, giving the state now nine Democrats to two Republicans. There was no state election.

PENNSYLVANIA REPUBLICAN

Party's Vote Cut Down In Nearly Every County.

Philadelphia, Nov. 4.—Pennsylvania has gone Republican by a majority of 200,000, the figures being as follows: Taft, 550,000; Bryan, 250,000. In 1904 Roosevelt carried the state by 505,519, and two years ago Stuart, Republican, was elected governor by 48,425.

The returns received show a considerable falling off in every county with the exception of two. A heavy vote was polled throughout the state, due principally to the many warm contests in the legislative districts. The Republicans hold their own in the congressional districts, if they do not increase their representation. There is practically no change in the Republican representation in the legislature.

In Philadelphia the national ticket carried the city by about 125,000 plurality. The entire Republican ticket is elected by a large plurality, including Joseph Gilfillan for sheriff, who was opposed by D. C. Gibboney, the nominee of the Independent Republicans.

The election in Pennsylvania turned almost entirely on national issues, the highest state officer voted for being a judge of the superior court. For that office William D. Porter, Republican, has been elected by a majority of 15,000 over Webster Grim, Democrat.

THE SOUTH IS STILL SOLID

Usual Democratic Majorities Returned In Dixie.

St. Louis, Nov. 4.—Missouri has reversed the Republican victory of 1904 and is again in the Democratic ranks by a majority of 35,000. St. Louis went Republican by a small majority. William S. Cowherd has been elected governor.

Texas.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 4. — William H. Taft did not make as good a showing in this state as President Roosevelt, who polled 51,242 votes in 1904. The vote this year is approximately as follows: Bryan, 220,000; Taft, 20,000. Thomas M. Campbell, Democrat, has been re-elected governor.

Georgia.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 4.—Georgia's thirteen electoral votes will be cast for William J. Bryan, and the state's representation will continue solidly Democratic. The state election was held in September. The Taft vote in this state fell 10,000 below that of Mr. Roosevelt, which was 24,003.

Florida.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 4.—Albert W. Gilchrist, Democrat, has been elected governor of Florida, and the Democratic national ticket has carried the state by a majority of 25,000, the Republican vote showing a loss of 3000 since 1904.

MARYLAND REPUBLICAN

Baltimore Gives Taft a Majority of 2000.

Baltimore, Nov. 4.—William H. Taft has carried Maryland by from 8000 to 10,000. Baltimore gives a Republican plurality of about 2000.

Four years ago one Roosevelt elector was successful by a plurality of about 500, while seven Parker electors were chosen by an average plurality of half that figure.

Returns so far indicate that W. H. Jackson, Republican, in the First district, and George A. Pearre (Rep.) in the Sixth, have been re-elected. Three other Republican congressmen have been elected.

Baltimore gives Taft about 2500 plurality.

Taft and Johnson In Minnesota.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 4. — Governor John A. Johnson's efforts in behalf of the Democratic national ticket have not succeeded in giving the electoral vote of the state to Mr. Bryan, but have availed in re-electing him by a small majority. Of the state's 275,000 votes Mr. Taft polled 172,500, his majority being 80,000 below Mr. Roosevelt's majority of 161,464 in 1904. Governor Johnson's majority of 76,633 two years ago was reduced to 30,000 this year.

G. O. P. Carries Wisconsin.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 4.—Mr. Taft's majority in this state is 50,000, being 105,000 less than the majority rolled up by Mr. Roosevelt four years ago. Governor James O. Davidson has been re-elected, and the state's congressional delegation, nine Republicans and two Democrats will remain the same in the next congress. The legislature will be Republican, and Senator Stephenson will be re-elected.

West Virginia Carried By Bryan.

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 4.—West Virginia, classed as a doubtful state before the election, has voted for Bryan as a result of the split in the Republican ranks. His plurality in the state is 9000. The Republican division helped to elect Louis Bennett, Democrat, governor.

Michigan For Taft.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 4—Both sections of this divided state have gone Republican, the total plurality for Mr. Taft being 100,000, a Republican loss of 127,715 since 1904. Governor Fred M. Warner, Republican, will retain his seat.

North Dakota Republican.

Bismarck, N. D., Nov. 4.—North Dakota has gone Republican, giving Mr. Taft 40,000 of its 70,000 votes. This is a Republican falling off of 38,822 since the last presidential election.

Un-Official Vote Cast in Centre County November 3rd, 1908.

THE GROWTH OF TRAFFIC

Big Increase in the Car Movements on the Railroads.

SITUATION BRIGHTER

Freight Traffic is a Good Barometer by Which to Judge Business Conditions.

BUSINESS IS AGAIN BACK TO NORMAL

In a study of the railroad and business conditions in that section the Altoona Tribune comments as follows:

Freight traffic is the best barometer by which the people of Altoona judge the local industrial situation. The heavier the movement the more work there is for the trainmen and the shopmen and more is the money that is paid them by the Pennsylvania railroad company for their labor. The situation in Altoona is brighter and more promising than it has been in several months and the freight traffic over the road for the month of October is indicative of better times.

Freight traffic is increasing over the road. During the month of October there has been an increase in the number of loaded cars handled both east and west, which can be taken as an assurance that the manufacturing industries are being set in motion, that there is an increasing demand for their products and that the country is recovering from the effects of the depression of the past spring and summer.

There has been a marked increase in the movement of freight traffic over the division during October and the daily movement of cars during the month will average more than 5,000. The records show that the month will run behind October, 1907, by 27,479 cars, but shows a gain over last month of 13,256 cars.

The biggest one-day movement over the division during the month was 6,507 cars and the smallest was 4,800 cars, not counting Sunday, when the slow freight movement is shut down in accordance with the custom of the company in order to give the trainmen the day at home.

The demand for cars during the month resulted in the clearance of the Petersburg branch of stored cars and the resumption of traffic over both tracks of the branch. When the industrial and financial depression hit the country the Pennsylvania Railroad company put in storage about 8,000 cars at points along the middle division and of this number practically half have been shopped for repairs and placed in service. There remains in storage on the division about 4,200 cars, and they are being shopped for repairs as quickly as possible.

The stone traffic from the quarries in the Williamsburg district and from the Tyrone Forge quarries is gradually coming up to its normal condition. It has reached about 80 per cent. of the normal stage and this is taken as an indication that the steel mills in the Pittsburg district are gradually coming around to their normal operating condition.

The Altoona shopmen at the October pay drew larger checks than in September or for several months previous. There is more work in all depatments of the machine, car and Juniata shops. During the month the company officials ordered the passenger equipment to be renovated and overhauled and to accomplish this work General Foreman Eberle was instructed to take on more men to do the work and in doing so the working force was increased to a considerable extent. A large force of are engaged in car repaiars in the shops and in the yard, and when the coming pay comes around their checks will be about the amount they received under normal condition.

Thanksgiving Day.

In a proclamation issued on Saturday President Roosevelt declared Thursday November 26 as the National Thanksgiving Day. In the proclamation he pointed out the steady growth of the nation in strength, worldly power, wealth, and population and that our average well-being is higher than that of any other country in the world. Fo this he declares, Americans owe it to Almighty God to show equal progress in moral and spiritual things.

A COFFEE HOUSE COURTSHIP.

By PHILIP KEAN.

Copyright, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Ruth Bradford came out from the elevated station into the street that led to the settlement. Fresh from her summer outing, her whole being rebelled against the squalor of the city street, the clamor of shrill voices, the wailing of babies in the fetid tenements.

Life was too short, she reflected passionately, to spend one's days trying to uplift one's fellow men. She decided that she would give it up, go back to the fields and to the woods all aflame with red and gold and breathe God's sunshine in freedom and content.

"I THOUGHT YOU KNEW IT," HE SAID.

And just then she met Roger Roove.

"My, but it's good to see you back again!" he said. "Are you on your way to the settlement?"

"Yes," Ruth stated, "for the last time."

He looked at her in surprise. "For the last time! Why?"

"Oh, it's such an eternal grind trying to drag people up who want to stay down and trying to keep children clean who want to be dirty, trying to push back waves of the sea with a broom."

"Why, Ruth"—his tone showed his intense astonishment—"when you left us in the spring you were an optimist, and now you have come back a pessimist! I believe you are joking."

"No, I'm not," Ruth declared. "I'm in dead earnest. This summer I've been living up among the hills, and I want to go back—I want to go back and forget the city and these hideous streets. After all, why am I responsible? Why should not I live a life of ease as well as other people?"

He shook his head.

"Don't expect me to answer," he said, "but something has change you awfully. And you might as well tell me what it is, because I'm going to find out if you don't."

"Well, if you must know," said Ruth slowly, "I've had a proposal."

"Then you're in love?" he asked quietly.

"I'm not sure," Ruth reflected, "whether I'm in love, but—oh, we can't talk about it here, Roger!"

"No; it is pretty public," he admitted, "but I haven't any classes for an hour or two, so why can't we have lunch together in the settlement coffee house?"

The coffee house, quaint and comfortable, with its Russian coppers glowing red against the dark wood, its smooth brick tiles, its somber tables and chairs, brought forth an exclamation from Ruth.

"It's so good to be at home again!" she said as Roger drew out a chair for her by the window and took a seat opposite.

"So you think of it as home?" he asked, his dark eyes reading her sparkling face.

"Oh"—her eyes grew startled—"I believe I do! A minute ago I was so depressed, and now—I think it is the spirit of the place that rests one, Roger—to feel that these poor foreigners can come here and find something familiar in a strange land of strange customs."

Roger smiled thoughtfully as he consulted the menu. "But about that proposal," he reminded her.

"Oh, yes!" Ruth slipped off her gloves and folded her hands before her on the bare table. "The—the man is rich, Roger. He has two automobiles and a country place and a house in town, and—and he sent me a box of candy nearly every day, and flowers and books, and drove me through the country in his big car, and—oh, I had the time of my life, Roger!"

The man eyed her a little wistfully. "I'm glad you had such a good time," he said, "but—but we shall hate to lose you from here."

"But you can't blame me," she said feverishly. "Surely you can't blame me, Roger. I'm young, and I've given the five years since I left college to work among the poor people of this neighborhood, and my heart has been in it, and I've been glad to do it, but now—oh, I want something of ease and beauty and brightness!"

He tried to speak lightly.

"You have earned it," he said, "and of course the man is—Prince Charming."

Ruth shook her head. "He's terrible," she answered, "very young and not very handsome, and he's very dictatorial, Roger."

"But you love him."

"Oh"— Ruth hesitated as the waitress brought them their omelet and bread and butter. Then when they were alone again she said, "I—I don't believe I love him, but I love the things he can give me."

Roger flung back his head, his dark eyes flashing.

"And you think you can be happy with a motor car and a house in town and a complacent husband? Oh, Ruth, Ruth, where are your dreams?"

She stared at him with a pale face. "My dreams?" she faltered.

"Yes; the things that we planned at college. We were to give our lives to others, separately at first, because each of us must be very sure that we wanted to live for humanity, and then, if love continued, we were to be married and have our home in an apartment near the settlement and carry on our work together."

They were alone in the dim corner, and suddenly Ruth reached out her hand across the table.

"Oh, Roger, Roger," she cried, "why didn't you say that before I went away? Why didn't you, Roger?"

"I thought you knew it," he said, with his big hand over hers. "Have you ever doubted it, Ruth?"

"Yes," she confessed. "In the spring when I went away I was so tired—so tired of bearing the burdens of the unhappy, with no happiness for myself—and it seemed that—that if you had cared, Roger, you would have said, 'Let's bear it together, Ruth!'"

"And I"—his voice was deep with emotion—"I was so afraid that you were tired of me that I didn't dare speak. Oh, you see what a misunderstanding it was, Ruth! And now, and now, you have strayed into greener fields and have promised"—

"But I haven't promised!" she cried. His face was illumined.

"I—I told him I must think about it. But, oh, Roger, it was because I could not separate my future from yours!"

"Dearest dear," he murmured softly as the waitress came with their salad and cheese and black coffee, and after that they made a pretense of eating.

But presently Ruth said:

"We'll live in that little apartment that overlooks the settlement courtyard, and I'll take a mother's class in cooking, and you shall talk with the men, and everything will be worth while, Roger."

And Roger, his glance coming back from the open window, through which he could see the crowded street, where Greek and Italian and Slav mingled, to the face of his beloved, bent forward impetuously.

"Everything is worth while," he said, with a wonderful smile lighting his fine countenance—"everything is worth while when love is the inspiration!"

The Unwise Shoplifter.

"It is strange," said a store detective, "why women shoplifters want to take the whole family along when they go out on a thieving expedition. It is a fact that many of them are accompanied by children when caught stealing. That seems a short sighted policy. A woman hampered by a child stands twice the chance of being detected that she does when operating minus such an incumbrance. Of course it can be argued that she fares better in the long run, inasmuch as she is more likely to be dismissed with only a reprimand on account of the child. This is no doubt true, for unless the offense is very serious it takes a hard hearted man to press a charge against a woman accompanied by children. But that very line of reasoning makes the act more reprehensible.

"My own theory is that most shoplifters do not go shipping with the fixed intention of stealing. The mania for taking something overcomes them after they get in the store, and they snatch the goods on impulse, no matter whether or not they have children in charge."—New York Globe.

The English Milkman.

In English towns, a Canadian visitor declares in the London Queen, the foreigner runs out to the pavement just to see that glorious chariot called a milk float go by—that gay bit of a two wheeled thing, white and yellow, white and blue, or red, white and blue, with the shining brass churn erect at the side, the reins coming over the shining brass rail in front, the little square seat inserted at the rear and the charioteer standing at the back like Ben Hur.

Then comes the English milkman on foot, with a modern yoke on his shoulders and swinging at each side a brass bound tin pail in which is a queer little measuring dipper. Who could wish to have milk delivered in glass bottles, with a paper sealed top when he can have it measured out at his door into his own jug in this quaintly curious fashion? What do microbes amount to compared with the joy of the mediaeval?

He Called For Trumps.

The major was laying down the law on whist. He always did, and woe to the man who ventured to differ from him!

"I tell you," he said, glaring defiantly round, as if daring any one to contradict him, "I once, and once only, had all thirteen trumps dealt to me!"

"You, I suppose, were—er—the dealer?" a meek looking young man put in.

The major turned purple.

"No, sir," he roared, "no, sir! Confound your impudence, I was not the dealer!"

"Then may I ask," the meek young man asked calmly, "what happened to be the trump card the dealer turned up?"

WOMEN SCORE EASY DIVORCE

State Federation Indorses the Proposed Uniform Law

ALSO CIVIL SERVICE

Attempt Will be Made to Raise $15,000 for Domestic Science Course at State College

PROMINENT CLUB MEMBERS PRESNT

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 29.—Deploring the ease with which divorces are secured in this country, the mockery of marriage and the laxity of the laws, the delegates to the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women today listened to the reading of a ringing resolution indorsing the proposed uniform law relating to the annulment of marriage and divorce. The resolution was presented by Mrs. W. D. Crocker at Williamsport.

Mrs. Crocker went to the convention prepared to present her subject intelligently. Her resolution was printed and a history of the action of W. C. Sproul in introducing a bill in 1905 authorizing the Governor to create a commission of three members to examine and codify the divorce laws of this State, accompanied it. It met with hearty applause.

Mrs. Imogene B. Oakley, of Philadelphia, chairman of the Civil Service Reform Committee, read an interesting report in which she dwelt at length on the benefits to be derived by a strict adherence to the principle of the civil service. She also traced the growth of the civil service reform movement.

An interesting address on "The Relation of Domestic Science to Human Life," was delivered by Mrs. Anna C. M. Tillinghast, Titusville.

After Mrs. Tillinghast's address a committee of which Mrs. Thomas Morrison, of Smethport, was chairman, offered the following resolutions:—

Whereas, Believing that the safety and continued blessings of our country rests upon the sanctity and comfort of our home life, we must bring service, sincerity and co-operation; therefore be it

Resolved That this federation of Pennsylvania Women proceed to raise $15,000 for a permanent domestic science scholarship at State College; this fund to be properly invested, with good security as fast as accumulated this scholarship to be known as the Kate Cassatt McKnight Memorial.

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, bilious attack, sour "risings" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

The Power of Habit.

After having been a faithful devotee of the automobile two years or more Mr. Bragdon suddenly was seized with a violent fancy for motor boats. "A beautiful river runs by this town," he said. "Why not have some enjoyment out of it? In a motor boat you don't have to dodge policemen and rural constables."

So he bought one, took a day's instruction in the art of managing it and keeping the machinery in running order and started out on his first trip with it one bright morning in July.

It was late in the afternoon when he returned home. He came in by the back way. His clothes were water soaked, and he had a generally limp and bedraggled appearance.

"For pity's sake, Alfred!" exclaimed his wife. "What has happened to you? Did the boat upset?"

"No, Lucy," he answered. "Don't say anything about it and I'll tell you. The boat's all right, but when I had been out on the water an hour or two something went wrong with the motor."

"Well?"

"Well, before I—er—knew what I was doing I was over the side of the boat and trying to get under it to fix the thing."

A Shrewd Doctor.

"This incident," said a doctor, "happened in France two or three centuries ago, in the days when public criers were always in evidence. There was a physician of Montpelier who used to go from place to place to practice the healing art. He employed a very ingenious trick to help him on his way. When he came to a town where he was not known he pretended to have lost his dog, which he declared was a very valuable animal, and ordered the public crier to roam about, beat loud on his drum and offer a reward of 25 louis to whoever should bring the dog to him. At the same time the crier was directed to mention all the titles and academic honors of the doctor as well as his place of residence. Of course it happened that the doctor was not long in becoming almost the sole topic of talk in the town. The people made up their minds that he must be a famous physician as well as a very rich one, as he could offer 25 louis for finding his dog. You might reasonably judge that the dog was never found, but plenty of patients were."

The Turks and Raki.

"Turks often get drunk. They cheat their religion, the dogs, to do so," said a converted Constantinopolitan.

"Mohammed forbade wine to his followers, but raki is made of mastic gum. It was unknown in Mohammed's time, or of course he'd have forbidden it, too, for you can get frightfully drunk on it. I know; oh, I know! It's a white drink, with a sweetish taste, a good deal like gin.

"A Turkish dinner is mostly a vegetarian affair, if you can call raki a vegetable. It consists of such things as laort, a curdled milk spiced and scented and bakalava cakes cooked in honey, sprayed with rosewater and coated with saffron flavored whipped cream.

"With each course you drink raki. If, getting drunk, you get miserable the thing to do is to crush your glass in your hand so as to give yourself two or three cuts. Unhappy Turks, you must know, express their wretchedness by cutting their hands. Look at these scars."—Minneapolis Journal.

Women In England.

In the seventeenth century, when Englishwomen were still recognized as possessing an economic and political status side by side with Englishmen, there was written an interesting entry in the church warden's accounts of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, proving that one Elizabeth Bartlett was intrusted with the casting of the second bell and that all the women employed thus were paid at the same rate as men for the same work. Another instance is to be found in the records of the Fleet prison, of which the first female warden, appointed in 1217 on the death of her husband Robert, received the same salary "as the said Robert had been accustomed to during his life." There was no talk then of confining the woman's sphere to work that was paid badly.

Quieting Him Down.

A farmer sued a cattle dealer for damages in the local county court.

"When I bought the bull," said the complainant, "he told me it was gentle and perfectly harmless—a child could play with it, in fact. Half an hour after I got the animal home he disabled a couple of my farm hands and then turned on me."

"Perhaps the animal was excited by his strange surroundings," suggested his honor. "Is he quiet enough now?"

"Well, yes; but you see"—

"Ah," remarked the defendant, "then my description was correct, after all. I said if he did get excited at first he would quiet down."

"Yes," responded the plaintiff grimly, "but you didn't tell me I should have to shoot the beggar to quiet him down. That's what I had to do!"—London Scraps.

Malaprops.

The pious old lady who, returning from a visit to the zoo, announced that she "always did enjoy a visit to the theological gardens" and the servant who, describing her master's last illness, explained that the "doctors held a consolation and found that it was something eternal" have found a recent equal in the lady who observed that when she was in Italy she "saw so many people in the garbage of monks with tonsils on their heads."

HISTORICAL SKETCH

Rev. Henry R. Wilson, D. D. the First Preacher and Teacher in Bellefonte.

Henry R. Wilson was prepared for college in the classical school of the Rev. Alexander Dobbin's at Gettysburg. He graduated from Dickison college with distinction in 1798 at the age of 18.

He studied Theology under Dr. Nesbit, and was licensed to preach by the Presbytery of Carlisle in 1801. Mr. Wilson was married in 1799 to Elizabeth, daughter of Daniel Brown of Carlisle.

After preaching a short time in Virginia Mr. Wilson, came to Bellefonte, prior to any Presbyterian organization in this town. He held his services in the court house and was instrumental in gathering a congregation there, and also another at Lick Run where he preached in a grove. Over these two congregations he was ordained and installed pastor by the Presbytery of Huntingdon in 1802. In addition to the charge of these two congregations, Mr. Wilson was invited to take charge of the Academy recently established in Bellefonte, which invitation he accepted.

Here he continued in the active and laborious work of teaching and preaching until 1809, when he was chosen Professor of Language in Dickison college. This position he accepted and filled for six years. He then returned to his pastoral work until the year 1838 when he was chosen the first general agent of the Board of Education, at Philadelphia. This position he accepted and occupied until 1842 when he accepted a call from the church of Neshaminy, at Hartsville, Pa. Here he continued the faithful discharge of his duty as pastor until 1848 when on account of ill health at his own request the pastoral relation was dissolved. His health continued to decline until March 22 1849, when at his son's home in Philadelphia the silver chord was loosed and his soul passed to the Heavenly Rest. He was stated clerk of the synod of Philadelphia from 1826 to the time of his death.

NOTE—It is an interesting coincidence that Dr. Wilson, the first principal of the Academy, closed his career in 1849 and the present principal emeritus began his active career in 1850 by entering into the American Sunday School mission work immediately after his graduation from Princeton college. What an important portion of our nation, church and academic history has been wrought out during the period covered by the lives of these two men.—Ed.

Fireing Sentenced.

James Bohrman of Mifflin, convicted of setting the mountains on fire in the Lewistown Narrows on September 15, was sentenced by Judge Woods to pay a fine of $10, costs of prosecution and undergo imprisonment of thirty days in the Mifflin county jail.

District Attorney Houser, recognizing, as did the judge, that the man was weak mentally, asked that the court might be as lenient as possible in passing sentence. Bohrman was captured in the mountains while walking through the underbrush lighting matches and scattering them broadcast. The fire thus ignited and burned over several hundred acres of timber, the greater portion of which was the property of Judge Woods himself.

CAMERON COUNTY BEARS

A Correspondent From Sinnemahoning Writes the Williamsport Sun as Follows:

"I have been reading about the bear hunters of Lycoming county, but I think that little Cameron will take the prize on bears for this fall and Sinnemahoning takes the lead, as the bear hunters near here have brought in 22 bears up to Saturday, the 24th. C. E. Logue has one that weighs 100 pounds chained in his front yard. Bears are seen in and near Cooks Run nearly every day, no very large ones have been caught yet a 200-pounder is the largest so far, but the hunters are looking for some big ones later in the season. Pheasants and rabbits are very scarce this season, but deer are very plentiful in the woods and several have been seen by the bear hunters.

"One young lad came across a cub up an apple tree a few days ago and filled it full of fine shot, when the old bear made her appearance on the scene and it would have gone hard with the young nimrod if his dog had not been with him. Bruin took her revenge on the dog and the latter will not hunt bears any more."

Horticultural Exhibit

An exhibition of horticultural products of Pennsylvania will be a special feature of Farmer's Week at State College next winter. Large consignments of apples are being received and placed in cold storage for this purpose. It is hoped that this will be the largest and best exhibit of apples and other garden and orchard products ever made in the state. Every county should represented. The cooperation of Granges, county organizations, local societies and individual growers is earnestly solicited. The success of the exhibit is now assured, but assistance in every section is needed to make it representative of the entire state. Farmers and fruit growers in different sections are requested to work up collections and send them as soon as possible to the Department of Horticulture, State College, Pa. Detailed instructions will be furnished persons who can assist in this work.

Found Heir by Accident

After searching for him for 20 years, Colonel H. G. Swayne, a Philadelphia attorney, accidentally found the Rev. George Tryon, pastor of the Hephzibah Baptist church, near Coatsville, and informed him that an aunt in Philadelphia desired to leave the minister a fortune, said to be $60,000.

A few days ago Colonel Swayne and the Rev. Mr. Tryon were in their respective carriages at the Coatsville Pennsylvania railroad station. One of the horses became frightened at a locomotive. Mr. Tryon's team collided with that of the attorney's. The preacher apologized to Colonel Swayne and offered to pay the damage.

"What's your name?" inquired the attorney.

"George Tryon," said the preacher.

"Why, great Scott, man, I have been looking for you for 20 years!" exclaimed the attorney.

Clouds and the Weather.

When two weather prophets disagree does it argue error or incompetence in either? No, says the author of "Storms and Storm Signals" in Yachting. The data upon which they base their predictions do not always bear one interpretation. Thus:

Because the clouds indicate weather in a different manner according to the geographical location of the observer, and also because they are in themselves but byproducts of the weather and are not causes, weather predictions from clouds at sea should be taken with plenty of reservation of judgment. To say, for instance, that at a "red sky at night sailors delight" is very tuneful and possibly truthful where knowledge is conspicuous by its absence, but a red sky at night may mean almost anything from a surplus of moisture in the air, meaning probably rains, to a volcanic eruption 2,000 miles away which has sent great clouds of dust into the air, causing the red color by reflection and refraction of the light rays.

The Eyes.

"Long, almond shaped eyes, with thick and creamy lids covering half the pupil and with a forehead that is full above the brows—there you have the eye of the man of genius." The speaker's own eyes answered that description strikingly, but he was far from being a man of genius, being, in fact, a magazine editor.

"Protruding eyes," he went on, "show mental and bodily weakness. Eyes close together denote cunning. Those far apart denote liberality. Thin lashes without any upward curve to them and thin brows poorly marked are signs of melancholy and indecision. The eyes of a voluptuary move slowly under heavy lids. Those of a miser are small, deep sunken and blue, set in a bony and perpendicular forehead. The most beautiful eyes—large, brilliant and clear, glancing and flashing with a rapid motion—the most beautiful eyes denote elegance of taste, gayety, some selfishness and a great interest in the opposite sex."—New York Press.

Like Father Like Son.

Four-year-old Clyde was a precocious youngster—very talkative and a close observer. He and his father were strolling through the meadows one morning when Clyde observed for the first time some tadpoles in a pond. He waded in and cried out, "Oh, father, what are they?"

"Tadpoles, son," the father replied.

"Please, father, let's take them all home with us, then come back and find the mamma and papa, and we'll have the whole family in our pond at home."

The father explained how impossible this would be, and as they walked on a few steps a large, ugly frog hopped across their path. Clyde's father said: "Look, son. Perhaps there is the papa."

Clyde was very thoughtful. He looked at the frog, then at his father, then at himself and exclaimed:

"Well, father, was there ever so much difference between me and you?" —Delineator.

Curious School Customs.

Mexican schoolmasters show their appreciation of a pupil's efforts in a curious manner. The diligent student is allowed to smoke a cigar during the lesson. When the whole class has given satisfaction, permission is given for a general smoke, and even the little Mexicans are allowed to light a cigarette for the occasion. Needless to say, the schoolmaster himself smokes a cigar of a size and quality proportionate to his superior position. But the scholars are not allowed to drink, this privilege being accorded to the master only. On his desk he always keeps a bottle of liquor, which, when empty, occasions much dispute among the parents of his scholars, as it is considered an honor to be able to fill the schoolmaster's bottle.—London Standard.

Cutting It Short.

A British lieutenant in the Second battalion, Lincolnshire regiment, who was called Leo Quintus Tollemache-Tollemache de Orellana Plantagenet Tollemache-Tollemache, gave notice by means of advertisement that he renounced the names of Quintus Tollemache-Tollemache Plantagenet Tollemache and should henceforth upon all occasions and at all times sign and use and be called and known by the name of Leo de Orellana Tollemache only.

Canada's Inland Sea.

People at home who have only seen Hudson bay on the map have mainly regarded it as a patch of polar desolation, forbidding and unexplored. In reality it is nothing of the kind. It is a huge inland sea as large as the Mediterranean [illegible] down into the center of the Canadian continent.—Milling.

Little T[illegible]na, this nickel you gave [illegible]e morning must be counterfeit. [illegible] Why do you think so, dear [illegible]e Elmer—Well, I hear papa say th[illegible] money talks, and I've had this mone[illegible] a whole day and it hasn't said a word.—Chicago News.

Modern Art.

Art in our time seems like an iridescent oil spread about on the surface of the muddy waters of our civilization; it and life don't mix.—London Saturday Review.

A Patient Sufferer.

Boy (to tramp)—Don't you get awful tired of doin' nothin', mister? Tramp—Terrible! But I never complain. Everybody to [illegible] Philadelphia Inquirer.

A Sailors' Christening.

"The late Bishop Potter once in his early days had occasion to officiate at a christening in a small fishing village on the Massachusetts coast," says a writer in Harper's Weekly. "The proud father, a young fisherman, awkwardly holding his firstborn daughter, was visibly embarrassed under the scrutiny of the many eyes in the congregation, and his nervousness was not decreased by the sudden wailing of the infant as they stood at the front.

"When the time for the baptism of the babe arrived the bishop noticed that the father was holding the child so that its fat little legs pointed toward the font.

"'Turn her this way,' he whispered, but the father was too disconcerted to hear or understand.

"'Turn her feet around,' the bishop whispered again, but still there was no response. The situation was fast becoming critical, when an ancient mariner in the back of the church came to the rescue. Putting his weather beaten hand to his mouth, he roared across the room, "Head her up to the wind, Jack!'"

Throw 'Em Down Babies.

"I wonder," mused the young father, "what there is in a baby's makeup that prompts him to drop things. It isn't really dropping, though—it's throwing. My baby is good about sleeping and behaving when there is company, but everything he can snatch he immediately flings to the floor. I've noticed and known a lot of others, too, who do the same thing. It's not only the joy of throwing, but the delight in seeing somebody pick the stuff up. Babies certainly seem to take a fiendish delight in watching their fathers and mothers or nurses pick up the toys and other things which they throw out of their beds, carriages and chairs. My boy used to be quite pleased with a rubber toy attached by a string to his carriage so that it just escaped the ground. He would grin and dangle it for hours. Now he yells as soon as he discovers it is fastened, and the minute we give it to him loose, bang, it goes on to the ground, while he laughs aloud in his joy. There's probably a reason, and the psychologists will discover it some day."—Exchange.

The Holy Grail.

From a book reviewed a passage is quoted in which mention is made of "the holy grail, the sang-real or true blood of God." This used to be a common mistake, and so learned a man as Thomas Warton in his "Remarks on Spenser's Imitations From Old Romances" writes, "The holy grale, that is the real blood of our Blessed Saviour." But this is wrong. It is the holy grale, or vessel, and does not mean real blood, though it contained the real blood, collected by Joseph of Arimathea. It was made from a diamond and emerald which fell from the crown of Satan when he fought with Michael. M. de Villemarque, who has written about Armoric legends, says that this jewel was a diamond. The word greal is old French, as I understand, for I have no knowledge myself that it is so. In the legend of Percival it is shown that the grail is a vessel. "The holy grail!" Percival heard whispered by one voice after another. Then from the shining vessel streamed an endless supply of the costliest dishes and wines."—London Notes and Queries.

A Poor Defense.

"Speaking of a poor defense," said a lawyer, "reminds me of the valet who was accused of drinking his master's wine. To this valet the master said:

"'Look here, you! I believe that you have been at this decanter of claret and then filled it up with water.'

"'Oh, no, sir,' said the valet in an aggrieved tone.

"'Well, it tastes like it,' said the master, and he set down his glass with a wry face.

"'Oh, no, sir,' said the valet excitedly. 'In the first place, sir, I never drink wine; in the second place, when I do drink it I never think of filling the bottle up with water, and, in the third place, when I do put water in I always am very careful to add a little brandy so that the wine may not lose its strength.'"

Two Great Orators.

As an orator Demosthenes was head and shoulders above Cicero the Roman. The great Athenian stands in a class all by himself, if we are to believe the consensus of learned opinion. Cicero, it is said, prided himself on his faculty of extemporizing at need, but probably trusted little to it on great occasions, while with Demosthenes it was the rule never to speak without the most careful preparation. The speeches of both were spoken without manuscript. They would never have made the reputation they did if they had been tied down to their notes.—New York American.

Their Only Job.

"Why, Mrs. White," began the summer visitor newly returned to Saymouth, "how those maples of yours have grown since last year! It's perfectly amazing!"

"Oh, I don't know's it's anything to wonder at," said Mrs. White easily. "They ain't got anything else to do."—Youth's Companion.

Erudite.

"Oh, baby," exclaimed the Boston mother, "what does make you cry so?"

"I really cannot say," was the unexpected answer. "I have never indulged in introspection."

The costliness of keeping friends does not lie in what one does for them, but in what [illegible] out of consideration for them re[illegible] from doing.—Henrik Ibsen.

Goldsmith's Actor.

Lord Nugent was one evening very eloquent to Goldsmith in praise of M. (a bad actor) "But, my lord," said Goldsmith, "you must allow he treads the stage very ill—he waddles."

"Waddles?" said Lord Nugent.

"Yes, he waddles like a goose. Why, you know we call him Goose M. Well, and then, you know, when he endeavors to express strong passion he bellows."

"Bellows?" said Lord Nugent.

"To be sure he does—bellows like a bull. Why, we call him Bull M. Well. Then," continued Goldsmith, pursuing his triumph, "his voice breaks, and he croaks."

"Croaks?" said Lord Nugent.

"Why, the fellow croaks like a frog. We call him Frog M."

"But M. is a good actor."

"Why, yes," said Goldsmith, "barring the goose and the bull and the frog and a few other things I could mention, and, not wishing to speak ill of my neighbors, I will allow M. is a good actor."—"Memoirs of the Earl of Nugent."

The Gypsy Life.

"Just as soon as my husband and I have $500 saved up besides our fare we are going back to England," said a woman player. "Then we are going to buy one of those gypsy wagons they have over there. They are too awfully jolly for words, don't you know. They are quite wide, have bunks, a cunning little kitchen and sitting room. You wander through the country all day; then at night you stop, cook your supper, sit under the trees and sleep out in the open or in the wagon, just as you choose. Many of my artist and theatrical friends have them and just wander from place to place. It is an ideal way to live; beats houseboats or bungalows. If you have ever slept out in the open and watched the stars over your head you feel smothered in a bedroom. I played through Australia, and we went from place to place in a big wagon, sleeping out of doors at night." —New York Times.

Ballooning Among the Clouds.

It has been my lot to see in arctic regions some hundreds of thousands of icebergs close at hand, and I have always believed them to be the most beautiful objects on earth, but the clouds of the sky, close at hand, are almost as beautiful. If you mount above one of these majestic things, swiftly overtopping one by one its folds and wreaths, and if remembering how high it is you look down and see only small green patches of earth through holes in the cloud carpet below, you have a little thrill of conception of how lonely a man would feel falling away down there and not being able to see the spot where he must alight. It is a safe little thrill, however. You know that you are not going to fall. Such dizziness as some persons feel in standing near great heights on the earth is almost unknown in ballooning.—Albert White Vorse in Success Magazine.

Six His Limit.

To the man who has a horse to sell considerable leeway is allowed in the matter of setting forth the animal's merits. "I've got the very horse you want," said Gideon Lane, the Bushby livery stable keeper, to one of the summer residents.

"He has no bad tricks?" queried the gentleman. "Safe for the family?"

"Lauzee, yes," returned Mr. Lane heartily. "Any lady can drive him, and half a dozen children could get on his back and he'd never notice 'em. Not a trick to his name."

"Ah," said the summer resident, "I don't wish a horse without any spirit."

"Spirit!" echoed Mr. Lane. "Well, you just ought to see him on circus day, that's all. And I'll tell you confidentially 'twouldn't be well for too many people to get on that horse at once."—Youth's Companion.

The Jews and Thirteen.

Commenting on the thirteen superstitions in the Oestereichishe Wochenschnift, Jacob E. Ehrlich, a Jewish writer, says: "The number thirteen is surely not a bad one for us. The holy writ tells of the thirteen attributes of the Most High, and we have thirteen feast days in each year. Our great arch enemy, Haman, was hanged on the 13th of Abas. The thirteenth birthday of our sons is a day of joy because on that day the child becomes a member of the religious community. The dream of Joseph was of thirteen —the sun, the moon and eleven stars— and Jacob had thirteen children."

Upward.

"No, sir," replied Costigan. "He's gone."

"For good?"

"Well, sor, he wint in that direction."

"Mem-sahib," asked a young East Indian girl of her English mistress, "why do you wear those sad colors? I don't like them."

"I am in mourning, Lattoo. It is the custom of English ladies."

"But black is the color of night, mem-sahib, and yet you believe that when you die you go to heaven at once. Then why not be glad for your friends who die and wear colors such as we see in birds and flowers and falling water when the sun shines? God doesn't make your colors. WEALTH THAT KILLS.

Bright's disease and organic heart trouble in New York and other large cities of wealth have reached alarming proportions. These are aristocratic ailments, coming from rich feeding, late hours and wines. In New York the deaths from these troubles were, in 1871, at the rate of 17.68 persons in every 1,000 of population; in 1883 the rate had increased to 21.91; in 1903 it was 27.20; in 1907 it was 30.14. Here, in cold figures of death and disease, is the lesson which tells us, who, though poor, love life and health, that riches are not an ununmitigated blessing. Of course, we all think that if we were rich we would be more sensible than those who are now wealthy, but this cannot be proved, prosperity is a much harder test of character than some suspect and is likely to show up the dross in the saintliest. Better by far, for our health at least, is the stern master, necessity, which forces us to go sedately along the same workaday pathway, than the wild gay crony, wealth, which would enable us to run impetuously to a premature grave. The universal cry and desire and plaint of the age is for riches. If we stop for a minute we may realize that riches would mean but a slight variation from the programme upon which our lives are already ordered. Food, clothes, home, occupation, recreation, friends—these we have. Wealth would merely put more spices in your food, more style in your coat, more gimcracks in your house, more anxiety in your occupation, more pretense in your recreation and more falsity in your friends.

A YOUNG Chinamen who had been in this country only three years managed to get away with $8,000 of his employer's money in Pittsburg. He seems to have had little trouble in familiarizing himself with American methods.

THE curfew law properly enforced would doubtless be followed by good results, but it will not enforce itself, yet it seems that is what it is expected to do. Laxity of enforcement has caused the ordinance to be disregarded, and disregard for law breeds contempt for law.

THERE is a movement in Chicago to bring about a closer attention in the public schools to the teaching of English, to do away with extravagant language. It has to be admitted that one of the apparent defects in the public school system everywhere is the failure to devote more attention to spoken English. There is scarcely a day when pupils in the grammar and high schools cannot be heard "murdering the King's English" to a discouraging extent in conversation among themselves on the streets.

THE VISIT TO JAPAN

The departure of our Pacific fleet from the hospitable precincts of Nippon invites reflection upon the character and the significance of its entertainment there and suggests much gratification to the fleet itself and to the majority of the American people, though perhaps also some humilitation and reproof to those whom we are glad to reckon a small minority. Now, at the taking of leave, it is to be recorded, as it was expected at the our fleet's advent there, that the Japanese welcome has been second to none, if, indeed, it has not been first of all in elaboration, in profusion and in scenic and social splendor. We are glad to add, and we must regard as most unenviable the disposition and the mind of him who would not unhesitatingly add, that it has equally high rank in the vastly more essential elements of the spontaneity and sincerity. To hold otherwise would involve the cherishing of suspicions for which we believe there is no foundation and which it would be deplorable to have generally implanted in the public mind.

HALLOWE'EN is the evening previous to the day of the festival of Al. Saints. However, many of us are led to believe that most of the celebrants of the evening are sinners.

THERE is usually much criticism of women's clubs from the masculine side of the house, but such discussions and resolutions as those at Pittsburg on Thursday will do much toward removing whatever may still exist against these organizations.

NOVELTIES in the way of insurance have been invented in London during past years. But we think the present traffic in "mob insurance" is rather the most remarkable. It is insurance taken by merchants against possible losses through rioting or looting by the growing numbers of the unemployed, and the rates range from $2.50 to $5 for $1,000 indemnity.

MR. GEORGE F. BAER, president of the Reading Coal and Iron company, is evidently convinced that it is nobody's business whether or not he fixes the price of anthracite coal. He believes that since he is the president of said corporation, and since his company owns a large section of the anthracite coal in the state, the fixing of prices is a private affair, quite as much so as the regulation of his family matters. The consumer is not taken into account it is intolerable impudence upon his part to meddle. This is not the first time Mr. Bear has assumed a similar attitude. A few years ago he was very indignant because President Roosevelt exerted his powerful influence toward the settlement of the dispute between the miners and the operators.

A Pair of Country Kids.

This famous comedy drama has been on the road four years and is one of the great successes. The sentiments in the play are pure, clean and wholesome and one is brought very close to humanity without its up to date frills of civilization. It has the snap and go that marks it as one of the plays of the day, with no long and tiresome waits, and when the time comes to leave the theatre you are like the little boy who has had his first stick of candy, "I want more." This attraction will be at the Garman opera house, Monday night, November 9.

LETTERS FROM WOMEN
About Pe-ru-na.

MRS. CLARA L. MILLER. MRS. S. L. JEWELL. MRS. MAHALA REID.

The following testimonials represent actual experience of every-day life. They are the truthful utterances of women who have been ill and have found a reliable remedy in Peruna.

It means a great deal to the women of America to have at hand a remedy capable of giving such relief. Constipation, rheumatism, kidney trouble, bronchitis and a host of other catarrhal conditions are relieved by Peruna. At least this is what the women say. They have no object in saying such things, except to render truthful testimony to their suffering sisters.

Peruna is making such friends every day. It is the testimony of the people that has made Peruna so justly famous Chronic Bronchitis.

Mrs. Clara L. Miller, Box 71, Columbia Sta., Seattle, Wash., formerly vice president of Skoogay Country Club, writes:

"Nine bottles of Peruna cured me of a protracted case of bronchitis. There is no superior remedy that I know of, as the action of Peruna on the vasa motor system of nerves is very beneficial. It increases the tone of the system and aids nature to perform her functions.

"I have recommended it to a number of my friends, who speak in the same high terms of it. I have certainly found it a most efficacious medicine."

Nervous, Tired and Weak.

Mrs. Christina Smukalla, 490 Winslow Ave., Buffalo, N. Y., writes: "I trust every one suffering from systemic catarrh will read this and profit by it.

"I was in a very bad condition indeed, when I began to take Peruna, and my friends as well as myself were very much alarmed over my condition. I was always nervous, could not sleep at night, my food did me no good, and I was always tired and weak. I tried several doctors, but found no relief.

"Finally I took two bottles of Peruna and felt like a different woman. However, I did not stop there, but kept on with it until I had taken several bottles, when I felt completely cured, and have remained so ever since. I can eat and sleep now."

A Good Word for Pe-ru-na.

Mrs. S. L. Jewell, R. F. D. 1, Freeport, Pa., writes:

"Having used Peruna myself for many years with beneficial effects, and observing the good it has done others of my acquaintance, I cannot but say a good word in behalf of Peruna."

Keeps Pe-ru-na in the House.

Mrs. Maria Goertz, Orienta, Oklahoma, writes: "My husband, children and myself have used your medicines, and we always keep them in the house in case of necessity. I was restored to health by this medicine, and Dr. Hartman's invaluable advice and books. People ask about me from different places, and are surprised that I can do all of my housework alone, and that I was cured by the doctor of chronic catarrh. My husband was cured of asthma, my daughter of earache and catarrh of the stomach, and my son of catarrh of the throat. When I was sick I weighed 100 pounds; now I weigh 140.

"Dr. Hartman's remedies have proven to be reliable and wonderful. Their effect upon the system is remarkable. Peruna quiets the nerves, and is a great specific for all forms of chronic catarrh.

"I am very glad to say that I can write you that I am cured in every way of catarrh, with which I had suffered terribly for ten years. I cannot thank you enough for your advice."

Constipation, Kidney Trouble.

Mrs. Mahala Reid, Corbyville, Ont., Canada, writes:

"Your celebrated remedies have been a wonderful boon to me in my old age. I have not been in so good health for several years as now.

"I was troubled with constipation, rheumatism and kidney trouble. A little over two years ago I completely lost my health, becoming almost helpless, when a dear friend sent me your remedies, Peruna and Manalin.

"I began to take them, following the directions on the bottles. I very soon began to feel benefited by their use, and continued to take them.

"I am now completely recovered from the above ailments, in fact, better than I have been for years past.

"I cannot praise the remedies too highly and will always recommend them to others."

Pe-ru-na in Tablet Form.

For two years Dr. Hartman and his assistants have incessantly labored to create Peruna in tablet form, and their strenuous labors have just been crowned with success. People who object to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets, which represent the medicinal ingredients of Peruna. Each tablet is equivalent to one average dose of Peruna.

Blair County Hospital

Dr. Thomas F. Neil, of Philadelphia, who has been superintendent of Blair County Hospital for the Insane for the past two years, was on Thursday dismissed from office by the poor authorities. Dr. Neil asserts that his dismissal is a punishment for his refusal to permit the authorities to practice petty graft in the hospital affairs.

Charges of the most startling character are made. It is asserted that women were imported from Altoona and employed under assumed names in the hospital.

At a meeting of the physicians of Hollidaysburg, held Thursday evening, a call was made for an investigation of alleged hospital mismanagement by the State Board of Public Charities.

Pain
Weakens

Headache, rheumatism, neuralgia, or pains of any nature weaken the system—they are a strain upon the nerves. Almost instant relief can be obtained by taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, and without any bad after-effects. Take one on first indication of an attack—it will ward it off. They are a pleasant little tablet, sold by druggists everywhere, 25 doses 25 cents; never sold in bulk.

"I was subject to constant headaches for a period of four years. At times I was almost unfitted for the work in which I am engaged, that of station agent. Through the advice of a friend I tried Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, and the result has been that I have entirely eradicated my system of those continuous headaches that follow a continual mental strain. They have done for me all that is claimed for them."

O. L. RUSSELL,
Agt. C. & N. W. Ry., Battle Creek, Ia.

"I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for a year now for neuralgia and find there is nothing like them. They surely have been a blessing to me." MRS. M. J. HAMILTON, Upper Alton, Ills.

Your druggist sells Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, and we authorize him to return the price of first package (only) if it fails to benefit you.

THE CURFEW QUESTION.

A Timely Discussion of Ordinance of Vital Importance to the Town

The appended article is from the pen of a member of the leading society for moral uplift in the town and we submit it to the thoughtful consideration of our readers. While the article speaks in particular of the authorities it should be remembered that a great responsibility rests upon the parents as to the enforcement of the ordinance. Tyrone has taken a number of children into custody during the short time its curfew ordinance has been in effect and the indifferent parents are being aroused to a sense of their duty toward their children.

Query?

The Curfew whisle blows every evening at about 10 minutes of nine o'clock. Is it to call in the people over 16 years of age? It surely cannot be intended for children under 16 years for whom the law was made. If children under 16 are allowed to roam the streets until 10 minutes of nine at this season of the year they may as well go home when they please, the devil has had abundant time to get in his work before that hour. Another question we submit to our authorities: who is responsible for seeing the law is enforced? Is there not enough interest among those in authority to see that the hour is changed and the whistle blown at 7:30 or even at 15 minutes of 8 and instructions given to the proper officers to see the law is enforced?

EVILS OF NIGHT STREET ROAMING

Prof. F. G. Krause, of Green Bay, Wis., states the case truly as follows: "To the thoughtful student of sociology it is painful to witness the crowds of youth, especially girls, promenading the city streets after dark with an air of bonhomme and good comradeship, exchanging rude jests with young persons of the opposite sex and sometimes of doubtful character. The moral dangers that beset the path of the young who are allowed a too free contact with street life are not sufficiently realized by many parents.

"The street talk among boys, especially, is not likely to be pure; the temptation to perform mischievous acts is too alluring; and the whole tendency is to establish habits destructive to a proper regard for authority. Not infrequently, street gangs are formed. They tease, torment and annoy citizens, abuse smaller children, snatch fruit from groceries, destroys property, and insult girls, doing many of these things because they think it is funny or smart. Amid such influences, children develop a low, quick species of cunning; but it is acquired at the expense of arrested development along higher and better lines of growth.

Railroad Fatalities.

During the three months ending September 30 last 302 persons were killed and 3,514 were injured on the railroads in Pennsylvania. Of the fatal accidents 253 were on steam roads and 49 on trolleys. Of the non-fatal accidents 2,039 were on steam roads and 1,475 on trolleys.

These figures are set forth in the quarterly accident report of the state railroad commission, issued Saturday. The commission receives a report on every accident in the state.

Of the persons killed on the steam roads 64 per cent were tresspassers, more than 25 per cent were employes and less than 1 per cent were passengers. Of the injured more than 72 per cent were employes, more than 10 per cent were passengers and more than 11 per cent trespassers.

Twenty-one persons were killed and 48 injured on steam railroad grade crossings. The largest number of deaths, 31, were from being struck by trains, and the largest number of injuries, 172, were caused by falling from trains.

The trolley lines killed only one person at a grade crossing and injured two Their heaviest fatalities were 23 struck by cars and their heaviest number of injuries 307 in like manner.

Pennsy's 1809 Rail Order

"The Pennsylvania will soon place an order for rails and equipment for 1909 delivery. The order will be about the same size as usual. The company will not let its lines deteriorate in any way. I believe that the worst of the business crisis is over and that there will hereafter be a gradual improvement." These statements were made by President James McCrea, of the Pennsylvania railroad, when he arrived at the union depot in Pittsburg on the inspection trip which he, the board of directors and other officials of the company are making over the lines east and west of the Smoky City. An average order of the Pennsylvania of rails in one year for the lines east and west of Pittsburg is 10,000 tons. At the present rate of $28 a ton, this would foot up $4,200 000. In addition to this the company will require not less than 200 more steel passenger coaches, because of the needs originating in the new Pennsylvania terminals at New York City. One of these cars is worth $5,000. The total would cost $1,000,000.

Hallowe'en was more generally observed in our town this year than for some time. All the vehicles of whatever nature were collected by the boys and placed on the diamond. Many of them which had been locked in barns and stables or had the wheels locked were found there also. To add to the collection all the wheelbarrows, ladders gates and all sorts of loose property were gathered up and added to pile making such a heap that the streets were blocked. Many persons who watched their belongings until midnight were surprised to find them gone in the morning. No damage was done to anything and there is no clue as to who did it. Several members of the council got to work Sunday morning and opened a way for the public. To make the work more difficult of hauling away much of it was chained together. The whole thing was such a big joke that no one seemed to take offence.

Mr. Hendricks was transacting some business in Beech Creek and was on his way home when the fire occurred. About 8:30 Mrs. Hendricks accompanied by her six children ascended the stairs to retire for the night. While she was preparin for bed a small hand lamp exploded and scattered the blazing oil about the room. Her first thought was her children and she managed to get them all out safely.

Nothing in the upstairs was saved consequently all their wearing apparel was lost. Only a few articles of furniture down stairs was saved. The house was in ruins by the time Mr. Hendricks arrived home. The loss amounted to several thousand dollars, on which there was an insurance of $600 on the house and $200 on the furniture. The family s being sheltered by relatives.

State College Horse Show.

The first State College horse show passed off successfully on Saturday afternoon. There were a large number of entries from that town and the surrounding country within a radius of fifteen miles, the limit. There were some fine exhibitions of farm, work, driving and livery horses at the show, which was held on Beaver field. Dr. Carl W. Gray, of Philadelphia, acted as judge in awarding the prizes, the first of which was a blue ribbon, the second a red ribbon and the third a white ribbon. In all there were about sixteen classes and entries were made in all except the pony classes. Space will not permit mention of all the prize winners at this time.

Bellefonte entries were made in the E class, single mare of gelding hitched to buggy or runabout, the winners being John M. Shugert, first light prize; Isadore Baum, second light and Isadore Baum, third light prize. Mr. A. Baum had entries in several other classes.

A lazy liver may be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. A stick is all right for the back of a lazy man. But it would be a savage as well as a stupid thing to beat a weary man or a starving because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging liver it is a great mistake to lash it with treating the lagging liver it is a great mistake to lash it with drastic drugs. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred a torpid or sluggish liver is but a symptom of an ill-nourished body whose organs are weary with overwork. Let your liver alone. Start with the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in proper working order, and see how quickly youn liver will become active and energetic. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relives the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs. Formula printed on wrapper.

Boy Lost a Hand.

While hunting in the woods back of the Eagle Brick works near Flemington Tuesday afternoon Brooks Gunsallus, aged 15 years, a son of William Gunsallus who lives along the pike between Mill Hall and Flemington, had his hand shattered and a hole torn in his abdomen by the accidental discharge of his shot gun. The boy was standing on a stump when the gun slipped from his grasp. The stock was resting on the edge of the stump and in dropping the hammer caught, discharging the weapon. The load of shot struck the lad fairly in the left hand which was torn almost into shreds, and also entered the abdomen. He was carried to his home and the wounds dressed by a physician and was later taken to the Lock Haven hospital where the injured hand was amputated. It is thought the wound in the abdomen will not result seriously.

A Communication.

We understand that the Post es are for the convenience of all the people and that the regulations of the P. O. department require the offices to be open about the same hours as other places of business in the town which open from 7 a m. to 8 p. m. in Bellefonte. You know a great many citizens of this boro and and vicinity are very much inconvenienced by having office and lobby closed at 7 p. m. We therefore request our Honorable Post Master to keep same open until 8 p. m. as formerly.

The state Republican ticket has also been successful, Governor Charles S. Deneen winning from former Vice President Adlai E. Stevenson by 100,000 plurality. Chicago has gone Republican by 50,000, against 126,000 for Roosevelt in 1904.

The next legislature will be Republican by a majority on joint ballot of 38, a loss of 24. This means the reelection to the United States senate of Albert J. Hopkins.

There will be a decided change in the congressional representation of Illinois. The present delegation from the state includes twenty-four Republicans and one Democrat. The figures in the Sixty-first congress will be seventeen Republicans and eight Democrats, six of the latter being from Chicago. Speaker Cannon has been reelected in the Eighteenth district.

Indiana Goes Republican.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 4.—The endeavors of the Democrats to place Indiana in the ranks of their party, causing the state to be considered doubtful some time before the election, have not been successful. The Hoosier vote has been given to Taft and Sherman by a majority of 15,000, reducing the Republican majority of four years ago by two-thirds. The figures are: Taft, 335,000; Bryan, 320,000.

Congressman James E. Watson has been elected to succeed J. Frank Hanly as governor, leading Thomas F. Marshall, his Democratic opponent, by 15,000 votes. The state congressional representation, eleven Republicans and two Democrats, will remain unchanged, but the legislature is Republican by a slightly reduced majority. The term of Senator Hemenway, Republican, will expire in March.

This city disappointed the hopes of John W. Kern, Democratic candidate for the vice presidency, who resides here, by going Republican. Mr. Kern would not discuss the result of the election, saying that he would issue a formal statement later.

Taft Wins In His Home State.

Columbus, O., Nov. 4. — Secretary Taft's home state has given him a majority of 50,000, 200,000 below the majority of Mr. Roosevelt four years ago. The strong Democratic fight did not avail to carry the state for Mr. Bryan, but Judson Harmon, Democratic candidate for governor, is elected by about 15,000.

Large Democratic gains are reported from most of the large cities and towns. The rural districts generally, however, have remained Republican.

The fight made by Governor Andrew L. Harris, candidate for re-election, for local option was an important factor in the result, as was foreshadowed in the county elections. The governor's activity lost him votes among the so-called "liberal" element, the loss showing in the returns from Cincinnati, Cleveland, Toledo and other cities.

Cincinnati Crowd Cheers Taft.

Cincinnati, Nov. 4.—The Republican ticket had a close call in Mr. Taft's home city, the party's majority of 40,193 in 1904 being reduced this year to 5000. Two years ago it was 7119. Mr. Taft received the returns at the home of his brother, Charles P. Taft. When his success at the polls was announced the house was surrounded by a cheering crowd calling for a speech from "the next president." Mr. Taft announced that he would make a formal statement in the near future.

Delaware Goes Republican.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 4.—Taft's indicated plurality in Delaware is 3000, and the Republican state ticket, headed by Simeon S. Pennewell for governor, and William H. Heald for congress, is elected by about the same plurality, with the exception of Davis, the Republican candidate for attorney general, who is probably defeated by Andrew C. Gray, Democrat. The successful candidate is a son of Judge George Gray, and the popularity of his father counted strongly for him in all three of the counties.

Close Vote In Colorado.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 4. — Colorado, which gave Mr. Roosevelt a majority of 34,582 in 1904, has again gone Republican, but by less than 8000. Jesse F. McDonald has been elected governor, and three Republican representatives have been chosen.

Montana Goes For Taft.

Helena, Mont., Nov. 4. — The three electoral votes of this state will be cast for Taft. Edward Donlan, Republican has been elected governor.

THE VOTE IN NEW JERSEY

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 4.—Revised returns indicate that Mr. Taft's plurality in New Jersey will be 84,110. In all the counties outside of Essex and Hudson the vote did not vary greatly from the plurality given Mr. Roosevelt in 1904, when he carried the state by 81,000. Roosevelt's plurality of 25,000 in Essex was expected to be cut down to about 18,000 for Taft. In Hudson Parker's plurality of 1300 is expected to be increased to about 7000 for Bryan.

The Republicans elect seven of the ten congressmen and the Democrats two, the Sixth district, which is now represented by a Democrat, William Hodges, being very close and in doubt. The Democrats elect their congressional candidates, Kinkead, in the Ninth district, and Hamill in the Tenth district. Thomas Foxhall is the Republican candidate in the doubtful district. The Republicans have re-elected Loudenslager in the First, Gardner in the Second, Howell in the Third, Wood in the Fourth, Fowler in the Fifth, Parker in the Seventh, and and elected ex-Congressman Wylie in the Eighth, which is now represented by a Democrat, Pratt. The present congressional representation is now six Republicans and four Democrats, so that the Republicans gain one and possibly two congressmen.

Both houses of the legislature will be strongly Republican. The senate will stand fourteen Republicans to seven Democrats, the same as last year, and the house will probably have forty-four Republicans and sixteen Democrats, a loss of four for the Democrats. The Democrats lose three members in Monmouth, two in Middlesex, and will probably gain one in Salem.

NEW ENGLAND REPUBLICAN

Taft Successful In Massachusetts and Other Eastern States.

Boston, Nov. 4.—This city, together with the rest of Massachusetts, has gone Republican, giving Mr. Taft sixteen electoral votes. The popular vote is: Taft, 240,000; Bryan, 120,000; Hisgen, 40,000; Debs, 10,000. The plurality of the Republican candidate is 120,000 over Mr. Bryan.

The gubernatorial vote is as follows: Draper (Rep.), 230,000; Vahey (Dem.), 170,000; Osgood (Independent), 50,000; Carey (Socialist), 10,000. In 1904 Parker, Democrat, received 165,746 votes to Roosevelt's 257,822. Hisgen ran behind his vote for governor last year by 35,489 votes.

Rhode Island.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 4.—Rhode Island's four electoral votes will be cast for William H. Taft, whose popular majority in the state is 16,000. Aram J. Pothier, Republican, of Woonsocket, has been elected governor.

Maine.

Portland, Me., Nov. 4.—Maine has returned its usual large majority for the Republican candidate, although Mr. Taft's vote did not reach the 36,791 majority polled by Mr. Roosevelt in 1904. The vote is as follows: Taft, 60,000; Bryan, 28,000. No state election was held, as Maine chose a Republican governor and Republican congressmen in September.

New Hampshire.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 4.—New Hampshire gave Mr. Taft almost as large a vote as it did Mr. Roosevelt four years ago. The balloting resulted in a majority of 20,000 for the Republican candidate, which is a decrease of 2185 since the last presidential election. Henry B. Quinby, Republican, has been elected governor.

Vermont.

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 4. — Vermont has gone Republican by 27,904, a falling off of 12,773 since 1904. There was no state election.

PACIFIC COAST FOR TAFT

Republicans Win In California, Oregon and Washington.

San Francisco, Nov. 4—There was no state election in California to complicate the issues, and the Republican national ticket carried the state by about 40,000 majority. In 1904 Roosevelt carried the state by 115,822 over Parker. The solid Republican delegation has been re-elected without change, and a Republican state legislature insures the election of a Republican to succeed Senator Perkins. The proposition to remove the state capital from Sacramento to Berkeley has been rejected.

Washington.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 4.—Washington's five electoral votes will be cast for Taft, the Republican candidate having carried this state by a popular majority of 30,000, reducing Mr. Roosevelt's majority in 1904 by 43,442. Samuel C. Cosgrove, Republican, has been elected governor, and the state's legislature will remain Republican by a large majority.

Oregon.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 4. — Returns from all parts of the state indicate that Taft has a large majority. There was no state election.

Bryan Loses In Utah.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 4.—Mr. Bryan has lost Utah by a majority estimated at 20,000, 72,500 of the state's 100,000 votes going to Mr. Taft. William Spry, Republican, has been elected governor by a small majority.

NEW YORK FOR TAFT AND HUGHES

Republican National and State Tickets Win.

TAFT CARRIES BIG CITY

Metropolis Gives Its Vote to Republican Presidential Candidate By Small Majority—Buffalo Goes Democratic, But Other Cities Are Republican. Next Legislature Will Be Republican.

New York, Nov. 4.—As the result of Tuesday's election New York state's thirty-nine electoral votes will be cast for William H. Taft and James S. Sherman. Both the Republican national and state tickets are victorious, Charles E. Hughes being re-elected governor.

Greater New York has gone Republican. The counties above the city have given to the Republican national and state tickets very large majorities. The figures are as follows:

In the entire state, Taft, 830,000; Bryan, 640,000; Hughes, 815,250; Chanler, 804,750. In New York city, Taft, 280,000; Bryan, 370,000; Hughes, 230,000; Chanler, 300,000.

Reports from all parts of the state indicate that the vote was heavy, the efforts of both gubernatorial candidates to bring out the ballots being rewarded with success. Both the old parties polled full votes, their strength not being seriously affected by the Independence, Socialist and other minor parties. Shearn, Independence party candidate for governor, ran ahead of Wanhope, the Socialist nominee.

The state's congressional representation will be divided, as at present, among the two parties, with one change, Hilquit, Socialist, being elected in the Ninth district in place of Riordan, Democrat. The next legislature will be Republican in both branches, insuring a Republican successor for Senator Thomas C. Platt, who will leave the senate in March.

New York and Buffalo are the only two large cities of the state that have gone Democratic.

Iowa Indorses Taft.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 4.—Although the Democratic vote which stayed away from the polls in 1904 turned out in full force Tuesday for Mr. Bryan, it was not sufficiently strong to carry the state. Taft's majority in Iowa is 40,000 in a full vote of 504,000. B. F. Carroll, the Republican nominee for governor, was successful.

South Carolina.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 4.—The Republican party polled only 2000 of the 58,000 votes in this state, running slightly behind the figures of four years ago. M. F. Ansel has been re-elected governor without opposition.

Virginia.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 4.—The Old Dominion is still safely within the Democratic ranks by a very large majority. Taft polled only 30,000 votes in a total of 130,000, a Republican loss of 17,880 since 1904.

North Carolina.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 4.—The Democratic national ticket has carried North the state by a majority of 20,000, the total vote being 210,000. W. W. Kitchin has been elected governor.

Oklahoma.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 4.—The seven electoral votes of the new state, the first to be cast, will go to William Jennings Bryan, who received 70,000 of the state's 125,000 votes.

Alabama.

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 4.—Bryan, 90,000; Taft, 13,000, are the election figures in this state. Mr. Taft polled 9472 fewer votes than Mr. Roosevelt did in 1904.

Arkansas.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 4.—Arkansas has given Mr. Bryan a majority of 30,000, an increase of 12,436 over the vote polled by Mr. Parker in 1904.

Tennessee.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 4.—Tennessee is still strongly Democratic by a majority of 80,000. The Republican vote of 1904 was greatly reduced.

Mississippi.

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 4.—Mississippi's ten electoral votes will go, as usual, to the Democratic candidate. There was no state election.

Louisiana.

New Orleans, Nov. 4. — As usual, Louisiana is solidly Democratic by a very large majority. There was no gubernatorial election.

Bryan Carries Nevada.

Carson City, Nev., Nov. 4.—Nevada has been carried by the Democratic party, reversing the result in 1904. Of the state's 10,000 votes Mr. Bryan has received 7000.

High School Election.

In order to familiarize the pupils with one of the duties of citizenship the regular work of the Bellefonte High school was dispensed with Tuesday afternoon and the time was given to the holding of a general election. Through the courtesy of the County Commissioners, 9 complete voting-outfit was secured and a room was fitted up with booths so that the running of the election was in all respects like that of an election held in a regular voting district.

All officers were chosen from the pupils; were duly sworn; and performed their several duties in accordance with the legal requirements.

After general explanations were given to them by the teachers the one hundred eleven pupils present voted with the following results:

HOW FOREST FIRES START

Large Number of Them the Result of Carelessness

UNCLE SAM'S ACCOUNT

But no Complete Report of the Fires Origination in Private Forests is Available

CAMPERS START MANY OF THE FIRES

Washington, October 30.—What starts these forest fires? This question has been asked over and over again this summer by readers of the accounts of the destructive fires which have been raging in all parts of the country.

Campers and locomotives, is the usual answer. Many of the other things which start blazes in forest are forgotten. It is true that perhaps one half to three-fourths of the forest fires do begin as a result of the carelessness of some camper, or from sparks flying from locomotives, but there are a number of things which set the woods a-fire.

A complete report of forest fires on the private forests of the country and their causes is not kept by any one. Uncle Sam, however, is most careful to account for the damage done by the blazes on his timberland under forest administration, aggregating about 168,000,000 acres, and each year the total area burned over, the timberland burned over, the amount of timber destroyed and its value, the cost of fighting fires, and the causes of the fires are carefully checked up. These reports are made at the end of the calendar year, and the announcement of the year's losses will therefore not be known for more than two months.

Last year's figures, however, give a good idea of the things which cause fires in forests. Of the 1,355 fires discovered on the National forests last year, all of which were checked by the rangers before they had burned over fourteen hundredth of one per cent of National forest area, campers caused 346, while railroads followed next with 273; lightning came next with 176; donkey engines used in lumbering operations, fourth, with 65; careless brush burning by homesteaders clearing land, 34; fires caused by incendiaries and those set by herders and hunters, 30. For more than 400 of the fires the cause is not known. This is not strange when it is remembered that a fire may smolder for days, if the air is too thick to permit the smoke to be seen at a distance before it breaks out when fanned by a wind so as to reveal its presence to the watchful forest officer.

While campers caused more fires than locomotives last year, there are many seasons when the railroads hold undisputed claim to first place. Forest fires started by both are mostly unnecessary. If campers would exercise care in starting camp fires and be sure that they are extinguished before they are left, and if the railroad companies would use the most modern and efficient spark arresters, it is reasonable to think that the annual forest fire loss would be reduced more than one-half. Lightning ranks third among the causes of fires, and of course, man has no greater responsibility in this case than to put the fire out as soon as possible after discovery. Careless brush burning by homesteaders and persons clearing land is said to be the cause of many of the fires which have started this year, particularly those which have swept over the lake states.

The ranger forces on many of the National forests have been kept busy fighting fires which, if left to run unchecked, would have done incalculable damage. By quickening communication between important points through the construction of telephone lines, and building roads and trails, the National forests have been made more accessible during the past two years and fire fighting has been greater facilitated.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause rather than the effect, would come into practice. A tiny inside, hidden nerve, says Dr, Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail, then the organs must falter. Dr, Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by J. Zeller & Son.

Cornell Defeats State.

In Saturday's game at Ithaca, Cornell defeated State by the score of 10—4. Just as last year, the score was no indication of the merits of the two big teams. Cornell lost several more scores after rushing the ball all the way down the field by fumbles at critical moments. Vorhis, the State halfback, scored with a pretty drop kick from the 30-yard line and tried for another but failed. The ends of both teams played a good game. Walders played a star game for Cornell, getting off some beautiful punts at 60 and 70 yards.

Falling In Love.

I do not doubt that as the world goes on a deeper sense of moral responsibility in the matter of marriage will grow up among us. But it will not take the false direction of ignoring these our profoundest and holiest instincts. Marriage for money may go, marriage for rank may go, marriage for position may go, but marriage for love, I believe and trust, will last forever. Men in the future will probably feel that a union with their cousins or near relations is positively wicked; that a union with those too like them in person or disposition is at least undesirable; that a union based upon considerations of wealth or any other consideration save considerations of immediate natural impulse is base and disgraceful. But to the end of time they will continue to feel in spite of doctrinaires that the voice of nature is better far than the voice of the lord chancellor or the royal society and that the instinctive desire for a particular helpmate is a surer guide for the ultimate happiness both of the race and of the individual than any amount of deliberate consultation. It is not the foolish fancies of youth that will have to be got rid of, but the foolish, wicked and mischievous interference of parents or outsiders.—Grant Allen.

The Stone of Infamy.

In many Italian cities there formerly existed what was called "pietra d'infamia," or a stone of infamy for the punishment of bankrupts. In Venice one stands near the Church of St. Mark, and in Verona and Florence they are near the old markets. On a day in carnival week the old time custom was to have all traders who had become bankrupt in the preceding twelve months led to the stone, and one by one each stood on its center to hear the reading of a report of his business failure and to endure the reproaches heaped on him by his creditors. At the end of a certain time each bankrupt was partly undressed, and three officers took hold of his shoulders and three others of his knees and, raising him as high as they could, bumped him on the stone deliberately twelve times, "in honor of the twelve apostles," the creditors crowing like cocks while the bumping proceeded.

Wigs and Trousers.

The wig went out and gave place to the natural hair, powered and pigtailed, as a result of the movement back to nature which accompanied and preceded the French revolution. But why did the wig come in? Some say that Louis XIII. started the fashion when he began to grow bald, the court imitating him out of a desire to please the monarch. Be that as it may, the wig "caught on" as few articles of costume have ever done, and those who have begun to despair of the masculine leg ever being emancipated from the trouser may find comfort in the fact that wigs prevailed for considerably more than a century in England, whereas trousers scarcely existed a hundred years ago, to say nothing of being the universal wear.—London News.

Mother Earth.

When Junius Brutus and the sons of Tarquin asked the famous Delphic oracle who was to succeed Superbus on the throne of Rome they received for an answer, "He who shall first kiss his mother." As the two princes were hastening home to fulfill what they thought was meant Brutus fell to the earth and cried out, "Thus do I kiss thee, O Earth, the mother of us all!" This is perhaps the earliest recorded instance of the use of the term "Mother Earth."—Exchange.

A Woman's Health

Is a heritage too sacred to be experimented with. For her peculiar and delicate ailments only medicines of known composition and which contain no alcohol, narcotics, or other harmful or habit-forming drugs should be employed. The one medicine which fulfills all these requirements is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—a remedy with a record of over forty years of cures to recommend it; a remedy, the makers of which print its formula on every bottle-wrapper and attest its completeness and correctness under oath; a remedy devised and adapted to woman's delicate constitution by an educated physician—an experienced specialist in woman's diseases; a remedy, every ingredient of which has received the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar diseases; a remedy which has more bona-fide cures to its credit than any other sold by druggists for woman's special requirements. It is not given away in the form of "trial bottles" to be experimented with, but is sold at a fair price by all dealers in medicines.

Delicate, weak, nervous women should especially shun the use of alcoholic medicines which, from their stimulating and exhilerating effects may seem, for a time, to do good, but which from the inevitable effects of the alcohol in shrinking up the red corpuscles of the blood are sure to do great and lasting harm in the long run. Besides they beget a craving for stimulants which is most deplorable.

Only invigorating and nerve strengthening effects can follow the use of this famous medicine for women. It can not possibly do harm in any state or condition of the system. It has been carefully adapted to woman's needs by an experienced physician—a specialist in their diseases. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

If a woman has bearing down, or dragging pains, low down in the abdomen, or pelvis, backache, frequent headaches, dizzy or fainting spells, is nervous and easily startled, has gnawing feeling in stomach, sees imaginary floating specks, or spots before her eyes, has melancholia, or "blues," or a weakening disagreeable drain from pelvic organs, she can make no mistake by resorting to the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It will invigorate and tone up the whole system and especially the pelvic organs.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic, "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For over-worked, "worn-out," run-down, debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

No woman suffering from any of the above symptoms can afford to accept any secret nostrum or medicine of unknown composition, as a substitute for a medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which is OF KNOWN COMPOSITION and has a record of over forty years of cures and sells more largely to-day than ever before. Its makers withhold no secrets from their patients, believing open publicity to be the very best guaranty of merit.

Dr. Pierce invites all suffering women to consult him by letter free of charge. All letters of consultation are held as strictly private and sacredly confidential and all answers are returned in plain, sealed envelopes. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." They are the original Little Liver Pills first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They are tiny sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 31 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

Thought He Had Died.

A prominent member of a German American society told a story about a German friend of his who was taken ill. For many days the German was close to death, but after a time he showed improvement in condition. The doctor told the German's wife that her husband might have anything to eat that he liked.

The German expressed a desire for limburger cheese, and the wife, being a generous woman and pleased at the improvement and in order that her husband might have a nibble at any time he had a taste for it, put some cheese in every room in the house. It is easy to imagine the aroma.

The next morning the doctor called at the house, and as soon as he opened the door he asked:

"When did he die?"—Hartford Post.

How It Works Out.

"I never tell funny stories in my speeches," remarked Senator Sorghum.

"The audience always enjoys them."

"Yes. A man hears you tell a funny story, and he thinks it is so good he tries to remember it. He regards you as a first rate fellow and feels thankful to you for giving him a new one. Then he tells it to the first friend he meets, and as he isn't a good story teller the friend doesn't laugh. Then he tries it on the house hotel clerk and the stolid dray mare man and several others, and by the time he gets home he concludes you have passed him a gold brick. He not only refuses to vote for you, but tells all his friends he doesn't think it's dignified to keep in office a man who tells funny stories."—Washington Star.

Why They Objected.

"No," said the fireman, who represented the truck company that had refused to work with a colored truckman, "there is no race prejudice in it. But we certainly hate to work with a man whose face will look just as clean on the way home from a long fire fight as it did when we started, while we other chaps all look smudgy."—Judge's Library.

Chinese Athletics.

The Chinese have always had athletic exercises of a sort in which they have rather prided themselves, though none ever seem to have taken such a hold on the nation as ours have on us during the last century or so. They have plenty of stories of strong men capable of wielding extraordinary weapons, of bending wondrous bows or of lifting heavy weights, etc.

Even within the last few years feats of archery were done before an officer could get his commission in the army, and in almost any village there is a bamboo with a pierced stone at either end to test the strength of the rising generation in lifting. But there was nothing of regular athletic training, except for a few wrestlers perhaps, before foreigners came.—Shanghai Mercury.

A Strong Hint.

They had met for the first time since their schooldays and were telling each other of their professional careers.

"And how did you come to leave the stage?" asked one.

"I had a hint that I was not suited for it."

"I see. The little birds told you, eh?"

"Well, no; not exactly. But I might have been birds had they been allowed to hatch."

Explanations In Order.

A man whose wife was extremely jealous planned a pleasant surprise for her in the form of a trip to New York to see "The Merry Widow" and wrote a friend in the city to let him know the earliest date for which he could secure seats. The next day when he was away from home the following telegram was delivered there, addressed to him, but opened by his wife:

"Nothing doing with the widow until the 10th. Will that suit you?"

Explanations were demanded.

As to a Courtship.

"He's telling everybody that she is his first love."

"And she?"

Heart Strength

Heart strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds it, strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

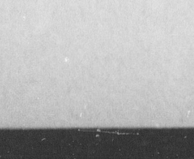
THE WOMAN WHO COUGHED.



Catarrh had nearly ruined me. It had eaten away the partition in my nose; produced Asthma, Bronchitis, Rheumatism; ruined my stomach; in fact, gone all through my system. Then Grip finished me. I was a wreck; took cold at nothing; and coughed day and night. The doctors dosed me with opium and quinine. No good. Cough "cures"? Bah! Then Brazilian Balm renovated me. Killed every germ. Took 10 $1.00 bottles. Now I'm like a girl of 18.

IN CUPID'S GUISE.

By JOHN BARTON OXFORD.

Copyright, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

The afternoon session at the dispensary was over. The last waiting patient in the long line which had filed stolidly by the desk for the past two hours had groaned out a recital of her many ailments, received her portion of advice and a bottle of medicine and departed homeward, calling upon numerous saints to shower their blessings upon the weary, white coated young physician behind the rail.

It was a blistering day. Outside the pavement baked in the pitiless sun, and within the little room the air was hot and lifeless.

As the street door closed with a bang Dr. Trainor slammed down the cover of his desk, elevated his feet luxuriously upon it and, pulling out his cigarette case, began to smoke with deep inhalations of content.

"Now, then, Sammy, old boy," he called to his assistant, who was arranging the bottles in the laboratory beyond, "let's wash up and go uptown for dinner. I'm starved. Lord, what a day! Whole blamed neighborhood laid up, it would seem. No, never mind those reports. We'll fix 'em up in the morning. We've done enough for one day. Hustle up now, old chap! We need something for the inner man, both of us, and a bit of music while we feast to cheer us up and take the edge off these wails we've been listening to all day."

"That's me," he agreed heartily. "Us for the feed. Be with you in a minute, Billy."

From the room beyond came the sound of running water and a mighty splashing as the assistant laved his perspiring face. Trainor arose from the desk and began pulling down the shades as a gentle hint to any late comers that business for the day was over.

KIM LED THE WAY DOWN THE SCORCHING SIDEWALKS.

Just as he was drawing the last one the street door burst open, and into the room came a panting, barefooted small boy, his eyes shining, his mop of red hair disheveled with heat and haste, his whole bearing that of a messenger with evil tidings, in which he took a certain pride of importance.

Trainor wheeled upon him, and the expression at that moment in his eyes could hardly have been mistaken for cordial welcome.

"Well?" he questioned shortly. "What are you doing here? Don't you know we close at 5?"

"Say," said the youth, no whit abashed by his reception, "I guess you know me, don't you? Me name's Farrell—Tim Farrell of Blossom court—cured me kid sister of the measles last month—remember that, don't you?"

"What's the row? Has she got 'em again?" Trainor growled.

"Got nothin'," was the scornful reply. "Accident this time. Lady's fell down the stairs an' sprained her ankle"—

"You're in the wrong booth, sonny—see?" said Trainor. "You want to go to 86 Carver street. They'll send down a doctor from there. This is where we give out medicine. Don't take any out cases here. So long. Chase yourself now. We're closing up here for the day."

Young Mr. Farrell showed no signs of complying with these delicate hints. A knowing smile curved the corners of his mouth.

"I guess you'll come, all right, all right," said he. "Maybe you think it's me old woman or me kid sister that's took the drop. Nixy, Bill. It's a swell dame, this time; that's what. Miss Mortimer, from the settlement, that's who."

"Huh?" said Trainor with sudden interest. "What's this? What's happened to Miss Mortimer?"

"Fell downstairs," the youth repeated. "Missed her footin' at the second landin', where it was dark, an' went down to the bottom of the flight. Twisted her ankle bad. Grogan, the fat grocer, picks her up an' carries her up to the old woman's joint, an'"—

Trainor had doffed his white coat in a flash and, catching up his street coat from a chair and the little back case from the top of his desk, laid a hand on Tim's arm.

"Come on. I'll go with you," said he. "Ta, Sammy," he called to the assistant, "go up and get your dinner at Gettemy's. I'll join you there later if I can."

Tim led the way down the scorching sidewalks, turned into a narrow side street and from there into a yet narrower court. With Trainor at his heels he entered the door of a tumbledown tenement and pattered up the rickety stairs.

At the top of the third flight they entered a doorway, to be greeted by a portly woman with red face and anxious eyes.

"And is it you, doctor?" she cried in relief. "Sure, she's hurted bad. Come into the front room."

She ushered him into the room beyond, where on an old haircloth sofa a very pretty girl was propped on pillows. Her eyes widened at the sight of the visitor.

"Bill," she said, "how did you get here?"

Dr. Trainor was a man of considerable decision. He turned to the stout woman, and his manner brooked no delay.

"Mrs. Farrell," said he crisply, "some hot water at once, if you please. You, Tim, hustle back to the dispensary before Dr. Martin leaves and tell him to send me some two inch bandages. Understand?"

The two departed on their errands, and Trainor turned to the girl on the sofa.

"It's nothing—really nothing," she said hastily. "I slipped on the landing and"—

"Helen," said Trainor severely, "don't tell me what it is or what it isn't. That ankle is badly sprained. I'm all out of patience with this settlement work of yours. You've got to leave it!"

"Oh, indeed?" she challenged.

"You certainly have," said he. "There are plenty of others better fitted physically than you are to carry it on. You're to take a rest now. And also you're to have filled this prescription I shall give you."

He tore a prescription blank from the pad in his case and scribbled away for a moment. Then he passed it to the girl.

"It is to be filled at the chapel of the Ascension," he specified.

She took the bit of paper and read it, while a dull red crept into her cheeks. On it was the single word "Matrimony."

Trainor, watching her, saw the color in her face momentarily heighten. Then she crumpled the paper and tossed it to the floor.

"Absurd!" she said, but her eyes were turned away.

"Not in the least," said he calmly. "I think you'll admit I have been patient with a great patience. Let me do the charity work for us both. I can afford it. I have money enough, and, what is more, I have the strength that you haven't."

"Billy, you're a dear, good boy," said she, "but—but"—

"But what?" said he.

She was silent. Trainor reached over and took one of her hands in his own.

"Helen, dear, don't be foolish," he said gently. "I need you far more than these people here. They can find some one else, but I can't. Will you accept that prescription?"

Again she was silent. At length she lifted a pair of radiant eyes to his. There was mockery in them, but tenderness as well.

"You see—you see," she began haltingly—"oh, well, the point is, you're the doctor, I suppose."

He bent quickly toward her, but at that moment the voice of Tim sounded from the hall.

"Hey, doc, here's the bandages!"

Thought Controls Weather.

I certainly do believe we can govern even "the elements"—the weather—by thought power. I believe weather is a reflection of the moods of the race and that as we and our moods evolve the weather changes to match. And I believe it is quite possible for your mental treatment or mine to stem the world tide and change the weather, just as one man's thought sometimes stems the thought tide of a mob and changes its course.

Why not? This is a fluid world made up of thought in motion. All its currents are set by thought, your thought and mine and every man's. Why, then, cannot air currents and thought currents be stemmed by more thought from you and from me? They can be. Nothing is impossible to him who believes and keeps on trying. This sounds like a creed on weather. It is. I've nothing beyond "coincidences" and faith to prove it by. But "faith is the substance of things not seen," and the not seen things are the really real ones. The man who governs his thoughts speaks peace to the weather waves.—Nautilus.

Bad for the Foreigners.

The case was one of assault, and the magistrate, fearing that it might be the beginning of another outbreak of hooliganism, was inclined to be severe.

"For the second time," he said, addressing the prisoner, "you are charged with assaulting your neighbor. The evidence shows that you deliberately and without any apparent cause struck the complainant with your clinched fist."

"Faith, yer honor," cried Pat, "if I did he struck me back again!"

"But he only did so in self defense," said the judge.

"An' what about me?" asked Pat.

"All about you," answered the magistrate, "is that you are found guilty and must therefore keep the peace toward all his majesty's subjects for twelve months."

"Well, then," roared Pat as he left the court, "heaven help the first furriner I meet!"—Tit-Bits.

CONFIDENCE IS RETURNING

BOOM AT PITTSBURG

Glass Plants, Furnaces, Boiler Works and Other Iron Industries Starting

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 26.—The polishing department of Pittsburg Plate Glass Works, at Charleroi, was put in operation this morning. The factory is running in all departments and in a few days will be turning out an amount of glass daily similar to that which went from this plant each day before the close down last March.

Two new furnaces, constructed for the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company will be blown in in a short time. One of the furnaces is ready to be lighted at once.

At Sharon the officers of the Damascus Brake Beam Company are preparing to start their plant next Monday. They say they have orders for 25,000 brake beams and the coming winter will be the best in the plant's history.

The Oil City Boiler Works, manufacturers of marine boilers, has let a contract to Kratzer & Co., of Pittsburg for the erection of an additional plant, to cost $100,000. Work will begin at once and will be completed by April 1st when 300 more mechanics will be added to the force.

Buffalo, Oct. 28.—A report from St. Paul that the Northern Pacific Railroad Company had placed an order for 12,000 tons of steel rails with the Lackawanna Steel Company, of this city, was confirmed today by S. B. Sheldon, general superintendent at the plant.

Altoona, Oct. 28.—The largest movement of freight on the middle division of the Pennsylvania railroad in the past eight months, and, with two exceptions the largest since the financial depression set in a year ago, was recorded yesterday, when 6,507 freight cars passed Denholm, a central point between here and Harrisburg.

Y. M. C. A. 55; High School 17

The first basket ball of the season was played at the Y. M. C. A. building Wednesday evening between the Y. M. C. A. team and the high school five. Although one sided the game was fast and interesting. Basket shooting was a feature of the game considering the lack of practice on both sides. The Y. M. C. A. was somewhat weakened by the absence of their centre Kirk and also their other crack player Lane, whose studies interfered with his playing. Notwithstanding the high school boys are all very young and much lighter than the Y. M. C. A. they put up a good game and will develop some crack players.

The line up:

Y. M. C. A.		High School.
Shields	forward	Hartranft
Wallace (Walker)	"	Olewine
Lingle	centre	Gamble
Walker (Keichline)	guard	Hollabough [Wallace]
Struble	guard	Bair

Goals from field—Shields 6, Wallace 1, Lingle 13, Walker 1, Keichline 6, Hartranft 2, Olewine 1, Gamble 1, Blair 2, Wallace 12. Goals from fouls—Shields 1, Wallace 1. Referee—Mallott.

Football News

If you are an enthusiastic follower of the great American football game, read the exclusive articles of the great football experts in "The Philadelphia Press," Walter Camp, the Yale coach; Mike Murphy, Pennsylvania's trainer; W. W. Roper, head coach of Princeton, and Glen S. Warner, of the Carlisle Indians, are now writing for "The Philadelphia Press." These men are experts and express their ideas and views of the games very interestingly. "The Philadelphia Press" this season is covering all the games more completely and accurately than ever before and it is recognized as the known authority for all kinds of sporting news. The cartoons in "The Press," depicting the current sports are well worth while.

Meeting of State Grange

The Pennsylvania State Grange will hold its annual convention in Altoona during the week of December 7 and the indications are that it will be the biggest convention ever held in that city. The grange has grown in the past four years to such an extent that the membership has almost doubled and it is expected that between four and five thousand people will be present. There is little doubt in the minds of those engaged in making preparations and arrangements that it will be the biggest convention ever held by the organization.

Trophies of the Chase.

In the days when buffalo still roamed the plains of Kansas in countless numbers a great many hunting parties came over from Europe to have a hand in their slaughter. One party was composed of a Frenchman named Auguste Rouzand, the first husband of Christine Nilsson, the prima donna, and an Englishman, a Mr. Blackmore, from London. They arrived at Dodge City one day in the fall with a carload of equipment, including every sort of delicacy that the market afforded and several large trunks full of bright new butcher knives. A detachment of the Sixth cavalry from Fort Dodge was detailed to accompany them, and probably no command ever fared better than that one did. The Englishman shot a few buffalo, and the soldiers slaughtered them by the hundreds. But the Frenchman didn't kill one. Instead, as fast as the animals were shot he would take one of his brand new butcher knives, plunge it into the slain animal until it was smeared with blood, wrap it carefully in tissue paper and put it back in the trunk as a trophy of the chase to exhibit when he got back to Paris as proof of his mighty prowess as a hunter. That was his idea of sport.—Kansas City Star.

Thread Used In Surgery.

Are you aware that the modern surgeon employs in his work dozens of different kinds of thread for sewing up cuts and wounds? Among them are kangaroo tendons, horsehair, silk and very fine silver wire. Many of these threads are intended to hold for a certain number of days and then naturally break away. The short, tough tendons taken from the kangaroo, which are used for sewing severe wounds, will hold for about four weeks before they break away. Silk thread will remain much longer, sometimes six months, while the fine silver wire is practically indestructible.

With the entire outfit a surgeon is able to select a thread that will last as long as the wound takes to heal and will then disappear completely. To accommodate this assortment of threads special varieties of needles are required. Besides the needle craned in different segments of a circle, surgeons use needles shaped like spears, javelins and bayonet points.—St. James' Gazette.

Just Names.

She had passed a season abroad, and in London, she said modestly, her success had been unprecedented. The earl said he could readily believe that.

"The dinner," she resumed, "that Lady Featherstonhaugh"—

"Excuse me. The name is pronounced Freestonhay," said the earl.

"Well, at the dinner Lord Dalzell"—

"Though written Dalzell, it is pronounced Deal. But pray go on."

"He and Sir Dugald Colquhoun"—

"You mean Calhoun. Yes?"

"And Lady Leveson-Gower and Mr. Bohun"—

"Lewson-Gore and Boone are the correct pronunciations. But I'm interrupting you."

"Not at all. All these persons and Lord St. Maur drank"—

"Not St. Maur—Seymour. Well?"

"Oh, I forget what I was going to say. You've quite put me out with your corrections."

"And your story was just getting interesting, too," said the earl regretfully.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Professor Blackie's Opinion.

A correspondent sends an anecdote concerning the attempt of a serious minded lady to lure Professor Blackie into giving his opinion of Sankey's hymns at a time when they had an enormous vogue. The lady was giving the professor lunch, and he tried to fob her off by praising a Stilton cheese on the table. Some time after the lady sent him a copy of Sankey and a piece of the cheese, hoping thus to draw him. She succeeded to the extent of these four lines of verse:

Thrice blessed is she that hath done what she could
To make a lean man fat and a bad man good—
For the body, cheese; for the soul, Sankey;
For both, thankee.

—Glasgow Herald.

A Polite Turn Down.

Sir Algernon West in his reminiscences tells this story of Robert Browning: "When he had become famous some one wanted very much to meet him. A kind friend arranged a meeting, and the guest besieged Browning with questions and conversation during dinner, and even after dinner he continued buttonholing his victim. 'Come,' said the poet, 'this will never do. They will say I am monopolizing you!'"

Soda and Water.

For sheer simplicity of phrase and conception few have surpassed that delightful old lady who, with a shrewd twinkle in her eye, inquired whether "soda water" should be written as two separate words or if there should be a siphon between them.

Truth in a Turkish Bath.

"Judge," said the colored witness, "I'm hongry now. I been tellin' de truth fer two hours!"

"Is that the longest time you ever told it?"

"Yes, suh, an' it's had me sweatin'!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Always Counting.

"Your husband says that when he is angry he always counts ten before he speaks," said one woman.

"Yes," answered the other, "I wish he'd stop it. Since he got dyspepsia home seems nothing but a class in arithmetic."

The Royal Month and the Royal Disease.

Sudden changes of weather are especially trying, and probably to none more so than to the scrofulous and consumptive. The progress of scrofula during a normal October is commonly great. We never think of scrofula—its bunches, cutaneous eruptions, and wasting of the bodily substance—without thinking of the great good many sufferers from it have derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla, whose radical and permanent cures of this one disease are enough to make it the most famous medicine in the world. There is probable not a city or town where Hood's Sarsaparilla has not proved its merit in more homes than one, in arresting and completely eradicating scrofula, which is almost as serious and as much to be feared as its near relative, —consumption.

Mr. Kohr was a great surprise to Bellefonters and is beyond question a young man of strong musical nature and gifts which must be recognized by those who hear him play. His portrayal of the intricate compositions of Vogrich and Chopin was a revelation to those acquainted with these selections and his accompaiment throughout the course of the motion pictures was a source of keen enjoyment and delight to all who heard him. We congratulate the Scenin management in securing the services of such a talented artist and trust that the public will appreciate their efforts and hear Mr. Kohr.

ACADEMY WINS AGAIN.

Redeems Her Only Defeat and Wins Return Game from Indiana Normal.

The Bellefonte Academy foot ball players afforded much pleasure Monday for their many admirers in Bellefonte when they defeated their worthy rivals from Indiana Normal school by the score of 17—6 after one of the cleanest and most exciting contests ever witnessed in this vicinity. The Academy boys not underestimating in the least degree the strength of their opponents went into the game with a determination to win and thereby redeem the only defeat they had suffered this season when Indiana conquered them over three weeks ago at Indiana. It is already a matter of history that they accomplished their purpose in a very successful and pleasing manner before the largest and most enthusiastic crowd of the year. The weather was simply ideal for football and infused the proper spirit and snap into every single player as was evidenced by the hard and consistent work they all did during the contest from the first to the last blow of the referee's whistle. The home boys knew the value of a supreme effort for victory during the early part of a game and so puzzled their opponents with every possible manner of football cleverness that when the first half had closed the score stood 12—6 in favor of the Academy. Dillon was responsible for both of the touchdowns of the Academy in this half, his running and dodging, aided by the excellent interference of Oberlin and the rest of his comrades, proving irresistible. He kicked both goals.

Indiana showed a powerful aggressive force which had been developed under the splendid coaching of "Eddy" Wood one of the best ends that State College ever had and after the Academy had scored the first touchdown and goal they could not be stopped in their advance upon the Academy goal line until Leonard Smith was pushed over for their only touchdown from which he kicked the goal. Here the Academy seemed to catch a fresh inspiration and to assume a more stubborn and determined spirit than before and succeeded by their remarkable aggressiveness and defensive work in adding another touchdown by Capt. Smith in the second half and preventing their opponents from seriously threatening their goal line a second time. The delayed pass was successfully used by Indiana on several occasions. Every player on both teams deserves unstinted praise.
